WONDER DOWN UNDER

Remodelling a sea captain's cabin in Tasmania

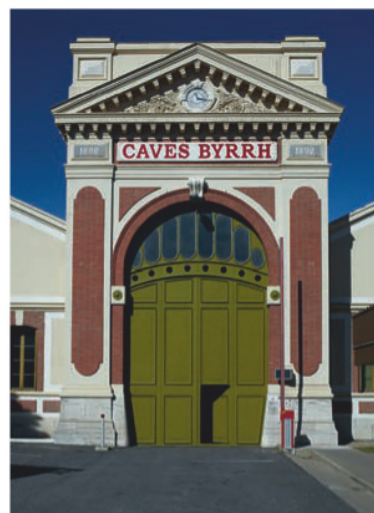

7 A consummate (not to say obsessive) creator, Antoni Gaudí even designed furniture for his projects – take the sculptural seats in Casa Batlló, now reproduced by BD Barcelona. The company also sells pieces originally made for a house nearby: the ‘Calvet’ armchair (page 100) and stool cost £8,171 approx and £4,645 approx respectively. Ring 00 34 93 458 69 09, or visit bdbarcelona.com.

8 The distillery in Thuir has doors the green of a Pernod bottle, naturally (page 79). No need to get in a pickle if such a hue turns you a shade envious. Valspar’s ‘Manzanilla Olive’, £28 for 2.5 litres of wall/ceiling paint, is just the thing. Ring B&Q on 0333 014 3098, or visit diy.com.

9 The iron and glass seen in the distillery near Perpignan (page 78) were Gustave Eiffel trademarks. If you like the look, but need something more domestic, the internal glazing of Plain English’s kitchens hits the mark. Prices start at £45,000. 10 Vicky Aguirre’s coastal house is all white inside, save for a few savvy splashes – such as the swooshing Zen circle on a door curtain (page 95). A hand-painted ‘o’ lends character, in more ways than one, to this plain white napkin too, by Ivo Bisignano for Ottolenghi (£20). Ring 020 3227 4999, or visit ottolenghi.co.uk.

11 Vicky Aguirre likes to relax in her seaside getaway and, looking at the surfeit of seating, we can’t say we’re surprised. We particularly fancy kicking back on the loose-covered armchair in the living room (page 92), for which Maisons du Monde’s ‘Samson’ is a fine substitute. Available in beige (shown), white or anthracite, it costs £451.50. Ring 0808 234 2172, or visit maisonsdumonde.com.

12 The cushions in Anthony Powell’s library (page 71) are as bright and varied as the spines on the shelves. Drawn like moths to the flame stitch, we’ve picked out a hot-hued alternative: Namay Samay’s ‘Rouen’ (£750).
